Proceedings of the Chief Commissioner of Mysore, Public Works Department, 23rd August 1880.

Read the following report, dated 5th August 1880, by the Judges, on the Flower Show held at the Lal-Bagh on Monday the 2nd idem :—

The ferns and foliage plants exhibited were good. They were in great variety and shewed skill and care in growth. Some specimens of ferns were so well grown, so graceful and luxuriant that two extra prizes were awarded for special culture.

The standard roses were very fair, but perhaps from unfavorable weather, or lateness in season, they were not quite up to exhibition form. The trees exhibited signs of unequal growth and the blooms were scarcely well developed, or satisfactory in form.

The dwarf roses exhibited were strong and well grown, and in good bloom ; but there was a want of variety in this kind.

The geraniums, both single and double, were excellent. The varieties were many, the plants vigorous and the blossoms good in shape and colors.

For the rest however, (chiefly annuals) it must be said that they were scarcely up to the standard of prize or " Show " plants of their kind, though there were many good individual specimens. Also it must be said that prizes were given in some cases more to encourage the grower than in appreciation of the merits of the plant. Except in roses and geraniums, there was rather a want of competition, which was no doubt owing to the unpreparedness of growers.

The cut flowers were scarcely up to the mark, and no prize was awarded for this. Some of those in vases, for competition as bouquets, were good and very tastefully arranged.

The hand bouquets were fair, but except in one or two instances, wanting in skill in construction as well as harmonious arrangement.

Many cut specimens lost much of their effect and value from want of skill in exhibition, and this was particularly evident in the case of the roses.

In some instances it was not stated for what prize competition was made.

Fruit and Vegetables.

The collections of fruit were good in some kinds, but not in general variety. Apples were excellent. Raspberries, guavas, figs and cooking pears were good both in size and flavour, but beyond these the exhibits in this class were not specially fine. It was observed that prizes were offered for only four kinds of fruit, exclusive of a general collection, and on this account some extra awards were made where the exhibits were commendable and well grown.

The show of vegetables was fairly good, especially in peas, cauliflower and cabbage.

Potatoes were rather inferior.

We have to acknowledge with thanks the kind assistance of Mr. Story of the Madras Gardens in awarding prizes.
